Reader's Theater - The Jump Park

Narrator: It is cold! The kids from Jackson Street want to hang out, but where? Nick calls Seth.

Nick: Let's go to the Jump Park. Let's ask Jill and Beth to come along.

Narrator: Nick and Seth text Jill and Beth. They want to go to the Jump Park too! Now they must shake their banks and collect the money to go. Then they have to find a parent to take them.

Jill: Jill texts the gang, "My mom says she will take us! Walk to my house to go!"

Narrator: The kids meet at Jill's house, and soon they get there.

Beth: I love the ball bit!

Seth: I love the slides!

Nick: I love to jump high and roll!

Jill: When I am at the jump park, I feel like I can fly!

Narrator: The kids jump, roll, slide and fly. They get hot, they need a drink.

Jill: Did anyone bring cash for snacks?

Seth: I did not have cash for snacks, but I have four water bottles!

Beth: I have some cash left, but I need more to get popcorn.

Nick: Let's add our cash together to buy popcorn.

Narrator: The kids put all their cash in a pile. They add it up. They can not buy popcorn, but they can buy a bag of pink cotton candy!

Beth: The kids snack on the water and cotton candy.

Seth: Did you see how fast Nick slid and the roll he did at the end?

Beth: Yes, I did. That was fantastic!

Jill: I did a flip in the air! Did anyone see that?

Nick: No, I did not, but I want to!

Jill: Let's all try to do flips as we jump into the ball pit!

Seth: That is a fantastic plan. Let's do that next!
